

SHARE AND LEARN WITH JEANNIE

The sea – sleeping on a hammock
by the sea.

I see a message in a bottle –
what could it be?

Nestled among the shells,
resting on the sand,
a large colorful starfish
holds the bottle like a hand.

Light blue, dark blue, light blue –
the colors of the sea!

White, pink, burnt gold by the sun, the sands and clouds fill me
with glee!

A tree with no leaves –
it almost done...
Oh, the memories we've had –
so much fun!

Summer Beach Poem

By Jeannie Finnegan

On June 5th, some of our residents attended our Wednesday morning "Share & Learn" class to compose a group poem about summer, based on two scenic photos of the beach. After reading some lovely summer poetry, the residents put their poetic and descriptive talents together to create this beautiful poem and we want to share it with you! If you haven't yet attended a Share & Learn class, we hope you will visit soon. Every Wednesday morning in the First Floor Care room, we have an opportunity to share our memories, experiences, and expertise and learn something new as well, covering many different topics. Come check us out!
